The Soay Sheep Society

- Friends of the Soay and Boreray-

Soay Sheep

Soay sheep are the most primitive of domestic sheep kept by man since the Bronze Age. They are a link with the wild ancestors of modern domestic sheep and retain some of the characteristics of wild sheep. They are curious, intelligent and rewarding to keep and breed.

The Soay Sheep Society

The Soay Sheep Society exists to support Soay sheep and the people who breed them, keep them or just like them. Membership is open to anyone who wishes to join. The society is run by Soay enthusiasts who want to help people know more about Soay, and gain greater satisfaction from keeping and breeding them.

Membership of the Society

A member of the society can expect to receive:

- * a regular newsletter

The newsletter is produced to provide members with information on Soay and other keepers and breeders. One of the objectives will be to help members keep in touch with other Soay people and facilitate the exchange of ideas, information and stock. The newsletter is free and normally sent to members three or four times each year depending on the circumstances and the availability of resources.

On behalf of members, the society endeavours to:

- * Represent the interests of members to the RBST and DEFRA
- * Keep in touch with Soay enthusiasts abroad
- * Promote the use of Soay for conservation grazing
- * Promote the welfare of individual animals and flocks of Soay
- * Give support to agricultural shows where people can see and learn about Soay sheep

If you would like to join, please complete the application form and forward it to the Society's Membership Secretary:
